

ABSTRACT

A device for providing high intensity directional lighting. The device may include a light bulb having a coating covering a portion of the bulb's surface area and an adjustable socket adapter. The adjustable socket adapter includes an upper portion for receiving a light bulb and a lower portion for engaging a socket. The upper portion and lower portion are hinged and rotatably engaged.

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

201220 26018001